Milam Poll Tax Payments Lag As Jan. 31 Deadline Draws Near

Approximately 2500 poll tax payments had been received at the Tax Assessor-Collector's office at noon Tursday. Valter White, county tax assesor-collector said that this amount is about one-half of the poll taxes paid in 1952.

Saturday midnight is the deadline date for paying poll taxes and other county taxes without penalty. The office will be open until midnight Jan. 31 for late taxpayers. A total of 5,610 poll taxes were paid in 1952.

People living in the Rockdale area may pay their taxes at the Gaither Motor Company. In Thorndale tax payments are being received at the City Hall.

At the city hall, Miss Ann Schiller assistant secretary, reported that only 864 polls had been paid up to Thursday. Some 1200 were paid last year.

Every citizen ought to qualify as a voting citizen for a twofold purpose, in local elections and state wide elections. In the first place, a poll tax is required for all local elections and in the second place, the Legislature is likely to submit one or more constitutional amendments during 1953 to the voters of Texas for a vote. Should this Legislature follow the pattern of the last several Legislatures, voters of Texas can expect to have the opportunity to vote on one or more proposal alterating the State Constitution.

Three Jailed Following Early Morning Brawl, Shooting Scrape

Charges of disturbing the peace were filed Friday against Bob Keel, Roy Harbison, and Steve Matthews after an alleged fight and shooting scrape at Blondie's Cafe about one Friday morning.

Conflicting stories of the affair were told by all three participants and one by-stander, but according to Sheriff Carl Black, all three were being charged as though equally responsible.

As near as could be gathered, the story ran like this: Keel and Harbison, who were together, met Matthews while they were all drinking beer at the Star Lite Club. Something was evidently said to raise tempers, but nothing was done about it there. Keel and Harbison ran into Matthew's again later in the night at Blondie's Cafe where the words turned into action. Night Watchman, Lee Fuller was called and broke up the impending brawl. However, when it looked as though the fight might flare up again, he removed his gun and gave it to Matthews while he went for more help. After Fuller had left, Keel and Harbison who had been told to go home, re-entered the cafe and the argument started again. Matthews fired a warning shot and Harbison ran out the door while Keel was held at bay. After Harbison had left, Keel jumped Matthews, grabbing his gun arm and holding the pistol in the air. Emmett Streetman, operator of the cafe then ran up and slugged Keel on the head with a knife sharpener. This finally broke up the affray with Keel running out the door.

Sheriff Black was called and later apprehended all three and placed them in jail where they remained overnight.

Comments From a Pastor

"Our Perfection"

"As for me, I will behold thy face in righteousness: I shall be satisfied, when I awake, with they likeness. Psa. 17:15.

Now we know that man in the first estate with God was in his perfection, but sin (Satan) came along and marred that, that was perfect by his life of deception and immediately man was conscious of his imperfection and hid from God. There is a desire and a consciousness in the hearts of mankind that he needs something from God, but in most cases he does not know how, to receive that, that he longs for in his own life, for he realizes, that he cannot of his own self, obtain to the desired height, or perfection. Therefore the soul is left bewildered, and in doubt. But God has a plan for man, that is a simple plan, yet many stumble because of it; a plan of simple faith in God and what he says in His Word.

Paul tells us how powerful it is in Romans 1:16, 17: Quote: For I am not ashamed of the Gospel of Christ; for it is the Power of God unto Salvation to everyone that believeth; to the Jew first, also to the Greek (Gentile). For therein is the righteousness of God revealed from faith to faith; as it is written, The just shall live by faith.

The penalty is to those that refuse to believe the Gospel, and continue in unrighteousness, as Paul writes: For the wrath of God is revealed from heaven against all ungodliness and unrighteousness of men, who hold the truth in unrighteousness; because that which may be known of God is manifest in them: For God hath shewed it unto them. For the invisible things of him from the creation of the world are clearly seen, being understood by the things that are made, even His eternal Power and Godhead: so that they are without excuse: Because that, when they know God, they glorified him not as God, neither were thankful; but became vain in their imaginations, and their foolish heart was darkened. Romans 1:18-21.

Now the things clearly seen that are made must be the heavens and the things around us such as the stars, sun, moon, sky, the grass trees, etc. We find a scripture in Psa. 19:1: The heavens declare the glory of God; and the firmament sheweth His handywork, so the things that we see should make us God-Conscious, for the scripture tells us that we must first believe that He is and that He is a rewarder of those that diligently seek Him. We do not seek him as though He were an individual that we can see with our natural eyes, but we seek Him in our hearts by faith in God's Word. David says, The law of God' is perfect, converting the soul: the testimony of the Lord is sure, making wise the simple. The statutes of the Lord are right, rejoicing the heart. The commondment of the Lord is Pure, enlightening the eyes. The fear or reverence of the Lord is clean, enduring forever: the judgments of the Lord are true and righteous altogether. Faith in God and His Word in obedience to Christ Jesus makes us complete (or perfect), Col.:2-10. Also Quote: Whom we preach, warning every many in all wisdom; that we may present every man perfect in Christ Jesus, Col. 1:28.

Rev. H. M. Bowley, pastor.
Gospel Tabnernacle Church.

Central Texas Will Have Its Introduction To Grand Opera Soon

Austin, Texas.—Central Texas will have its introduction to "grand opera in the grand manner" at the University of Texas Feb. 16 at 8:15 p. m.

Presentation of Puccini's immortal "La Boheme" marks the first time professional grand opera has ever been presented in Austin. The performance, featuring seven Metropolitan Opera stars, will be identical with that scheduled for Feb. 15 in San Antonio as the climax of the San Antonio Symphony Society's ninth Grand Opera Festival.

Bringing grand opera to Central Texas is a costly experiment for the University's Cultural Entertainment Committee, and the interest of music lovers in the area will determine whether the venture is repeated, Dr. Jones said. "La Boheme" is a fortunate choice for the first production, since its tender story and universally-loved music have given it a special place in the hearts of everyone who has heard or seen it.

Electric Cooking

And electric cooking costs only half as much as you think, too!
Yes, cleaner, cooler electric cooking actually costs less than 1¢ per person per meal. That's because you cook with magic "free heat" most of the time. The oven thermostat cuts the electricity off and back on as needed to keep the temperature even, and the current is on less than half of the time. Much of the surface cooking uses the low heat position on the range — inexpensive as an ordinary light bulb. No doubt about it, when you cook electrically, with accurately-controlled, even heat, you cook with real thrift — and good taste, too!

LITTLE RIVER PHILOSOPHER SAYS FOOTBALL CAN ABOLISH THE TWO PLATOON SYSTEM, BUT NOT HIM

Editor's note: The Little River Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm in Marlow community has been reading the sports pages, his letter this week reveals.

Dear editar:

I don't know much about footfall but if a man was confined to talkin on just what he knows something about most sessions of the Texas legislature and the national Congress would be over a few days after they're convened and while that might suit some people it wouldn't suit me, the purpose of a legislative sessions among other things is to get the people's minds off their worries at home by worryin over what they're gonna do at Austin and Washington.

At any rate, what I started out to say was that while I don't know much about football, I did read in the papers last week where the two platoon system has been abolished and from now on the same team will have to stay on the field practically the whole game.

What they do in football is none of my business, but I want it understood I intend to continue usin the two platoon system out here on my place. Farmin is different from football, you don't do it for the spectators' entertainment, and not very often for the glory of the farmer, although occasionally you do get paid, the same as a college player.

But under my two platoon system, the work is divided. For example, my cows do all the work until a calf is ready for the market, then I send myself in and haul it to town. Or you take a cotton farmer. The first platoon picks the stuff, then he steps in and takes it to the gin. Personally, I don't mind standin around seein a tractor is filled with gas, but then I like to call in the offensive team and let him go up one row and down another.

I understand the same system is used in lots of other places. In a bank, loanin money is handled by one team, but collectin it sometimes is a job for somebody else. In marriage, you make the mistake but it's up to some lawyer to get you out of it. When an oil man says he's drillin a well, what he means is he has somebody drillin it for him. When a town farmer says he's gonna plant so many acres of such and such a crop this year, he means he's gonna oversee it, and the view when platin from a position behind a windshield is different from the view you get with your hand bent over from a position on a tractor seat.

Football may abolish the two platoon system, but I'm gonna stick it out here, and I think my friends in town will too.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

1952 Record Year For Texans Buying Insurance Coverage

Austin.—Texans bought more fire, windstorm and extended coverage insurance in 1952 than in any other year in history, Fire Insurance Commissioner Paul H. Brown announced today.

Fire insurance premiums reported through the Texas Insurance Checking office totaled $67,945,584 last year—almost 83-½ million more than in 1951 for an increase of 7 per cent. Windstorm and extended coverage premiums totaled $46,778,983 in 1952—a gain of 8 per cent over the $43,348,500 Texans spent for this kind of insurance protection in 1951.

Commissioner Brown said the increase in insurance premiums was due largely to new construction, inflation and heavy inventories. There were no general changes in fire, windstorm and extended coverage rates during 1952, although there were some adjustments applying to specific classes of risks, he said.

Realization by property owners that they need more insurance to protect the inflated values of their property is one reason for the increased buying, Commissioner Brown said. He believes that property owners will continue to increase their coverage so long as values are inflated.

No report is availabile yet on losses paid during 1952, said. Reports are still coming in from the companies and will not be tabulated for some time.

TEXAN PARADE

WATER SCARCITY NOTHING NEW IN TEXAS

The drouth of the past year stimulated much dry deather and conservation talk. Actually, dry weather has been a subject of alarming stories since the days of the first tall tales.

One West Texan described his climate: "You get so dry you have to be primed to spit."

One dry-lander told of a frog that had just turned seven years old and had not learned to swim.

In some places in the dry country about all that could be said of the quality of the water was that it would wet. The story is told that a thirsty, newly arrived preacher in a certain community took a sip of water and exclaimed: "No wonder they voted beer back."

The story is told that a school teacher rigged up a can with holes punched in the bottom and poured water in the can and let it run out to show the children what rain looked like so that they would not become scared when it rained.

During a drouth in 1855 an editor wrote: "The man who sells cabbage, sells little heads. Hens lay bluebird eggs and all the hogs are pigs. Horses have dwindled down to colts and the cattle to calves. The loads of wood headed to town are crows' nests and scarce any person can afford more fire than a single luficer natch a day . . . Whiskey venders deal out pondwater for rot-gut."

When stockmen started driving their herds to market, water was the big problem. There were not enough rivers to furnish drinking water. Stories of cattle and men starving of thirst on the long drives is part of the lore of Cattleland. It took good managing, scouting, and some luck to get the herds to the Northern market on the hoof, especially in dry seasons. But surprisingly few cattle were lost. Sam Garner, in "Trail Drivers of Texas," told of paying three dollars for five gallons of water on the trail.

Men learned "tricks" for finding water, and enduring the lack of it. They learned to watch the birds and animals. A good scout knew the birds that watered each day and those that did not. The dove waters each day. The scout could take the course of the doves as they flew into the brakes for water. The swallow, or dirt-dauber, was an easy bird to judge. He flew low; if his mouth was empty he was on his way to water. If he was carrying mud in his mouth he was flying straight from water.

Animals were depended upon for sign. Antelopes might go for months without water. But a mustang watered daily in the summertime. If mustangs were found traveling steadily strung out, they were on their way to water. If they were scattered, and grazing, they were coming from water.

Charles Goodnight stated that on the plains water could always be found within three miles of a mesquite bush: "In a dry climate its seed seem to spring up only from the droppings of an animal. The only animal on the Plains that ate mesquite beans was the mustang . . . Now mustangs rarely graze out from water more than three miles . . . Therefore, when I saw a mesquite bush I used to know that water was within three miles."

Water scarcely has long been an inconvenience in Texas. But men have made jokes about it, and in various ingenious ways have survived and made progress — and doubtless will continue to do so.

Ben Kennon, local business man is in Anderson Clinic, Houston, where he underwent surgery Wednesday. Mrs. Kennon, her two daughters and son were in Houston Wednesday and reported Mr. Kennon's condition as being satisfactory.

Secretary Ezra Benson Orders Big Overhaul in Agricultural Department

Washington. — Secretary Ezra Taft Benson promised Friday to overhaul and cut expenses of the Agriculture Department which, he said, had been built into a "huge bureaucracy" by his Democratic predecessors.

In his first official act, the GOP administration's farm chief announced a regrouping of the department's 20 agencies. He placed them in four groups and said this was a preparatory step toward greater operating efficiency.

He also served notice that he will expect department employees to give a "full day's work for a day's pay."

Today's action in itself did not reduce the number of workers nor did it change any department activity. Benson aides said the economy and streamlining measures would come later.

Benson's announcement of his reorganization order was greeted by muffled rumblings from many holdover employes of the Democratic administration because of implications in its opening paragraph.

The paragraph read:

"The U. S. Department of Agriculture, largest of all the nation's civilian agencies, swollen into a huge bureaucracy of 20 agencies and bureaus in the last 20 years, is getting a major overhauling."

Republicans had charged that the PMA had used the soid subsidy payments to farmers to influence votes. They also contended that shortages in government grains in public storage, which were uncovered a year ago, might not have happened had the CCC been free of PMA control.

FARM DEMONSTRATION ANNIVERSARY SET

The 50th anniversary of the establishment of the first farm production will be observed on February 26. The present way Agricultural Extension Service (County Agent System) grew out of this demonstration.

It was established by Dr. Seaman A. Knapp and Walter C. Porter on the Porter Farm near Terrell in Kaufman County in 1903. Valuable assistance was rendered by the local citizens of Terrell in making this first demonstration a success. The extension method of teaching—by the demonstration—is now in use around the world.

Price Support Bill On Partiy Written For Basic Products

Washington.—The government would support prices for basic agricultural commodities at 95 per cent of parity in 1953 and 1954 under a bill introduced today by Senators Eastland (D-Miss.) and Young (R-N.C.)

Eastland told the Senate support prices should be increased from the present 90 per cent of paritq to 95 per cent "as a top-gap device to bolster sagging farm income."

Parity is a price calculated in terms of the cost of things farmers buy. The parity price of wheat, for instance, goes up and down with the rise and fall of such things as gasoline an shoes.

Under the laws, the government steps in and buys supported commodities, to bolster the market, when the price falls below 90 per cent of parity.

Grain Increase Cotton Reduction Requested

Texas agricultural producers, under the 1953 goals program, have been asked to materially increase the acreages of grain and roughage crops and reduce cotton plantings.

The grain and roughage is needed to restore the depleted stocks of these feeds.

INTERNAL REVENUE

F. J. Schultz of the Cameron office Internal Revenue service said this week that in order to file a complete income tax return, empolyees must have a Form W-2, statement of earnings and income tav withheld, from each employer for whom they worked during 1952.

F. J. Schultz also stated it would be appreciated im employers would make a special effort to furnish each employee with his Form W-2 statement at the earliest possible date. This will enable many employees to file an early return and, therefore, receive an early payment of any refund due.

Milam FFA, 4-H Club Boys Get Invitation To San Antonio Show

Milam County FFA and 4-H Club boys received invitations to participate in the San Antonio Stock Show.

The San Antonio Stock Show will feature a new event this year—a salf scramble for FFA and 4-H Club boys which will be held during the rodeo performance.

According to Leon Kahanek, Hallettsville, chairman of the calf scramble, 4-H Club and FFA boys between the ages of 12 and 18 will be invited to participate in the first scramble.

There will be 11 go-rounds during the show, one during each night rodeo performance and one on the Rural Youth Day matinee, Satruday, Feb. 21.

Twenty boys will compete in each go-round and attempt to catch 10 calves which will be turned loose in the arena. The boys will carry a halter with attached 10-foot rope, and each boy will attempt to catch and halter one of the calves and lead the calf across the finish line without aid.

FFA and 4-H Club boys will compete on alternate nights and the scramble will be under the supervision of the Vocational Agriculture department of the school or 4-H supervisors.

The ten boys catching a calf in each go-round will be issued purchase certificates for livestock. First place will receive $60; second, $50; third, $40; fourth, 30; fifth, $25; sixth through tenth, $20.

All purchaes must be used in the purchase of livestock which must be used as the boys' FFA or 4-H Club project.

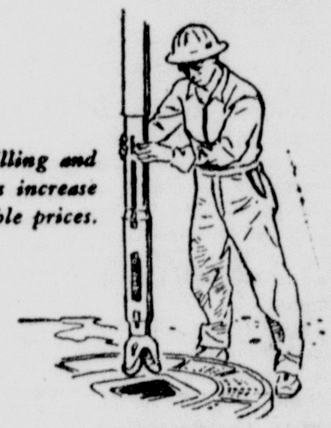
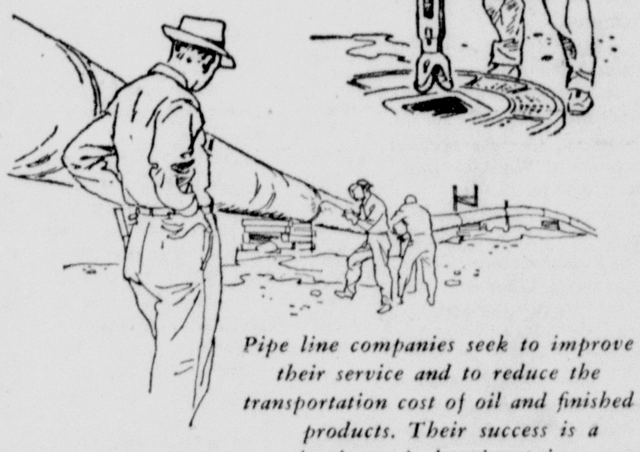
Competition begins with the search for oil.

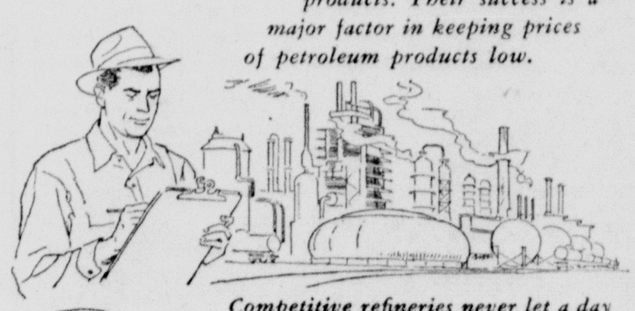
Competition gives you the best petroleum products in the world at the lowest prices

Improved drilling and producing methods increase supplies of oil at reasonable prices.





Pipe line companies seek to improve their service and to reduce the transportation cost of oil and finished products. Their success is a major factor in keeping prices of petroleum products low.



Competitive refineries never let a day pass without trying to find a better way to make more and better petroleum products for your use.

Your service station dealer competes in product quality and service with all the other dealers in your neighborhood.

The U. S. oil business is one of the most highly competitive industries in this country and, for that matter, in the world. Every time you buy a gallon of gasoline or a quart of motor oil, there are at least 100 companies that would like you to buy from them.

Your purchase stimulates competition far beyond the service station driveway where you make it. It stirs scientists to find more oil for your use. It urges production men to produce oil more efficiently and economically and with less waste. It extends through low-cost transportation pipe lines to refineries that seek better ways to make more and better petroleum products to compete for your business.

Is this competition a good thing?

It certainly is. It's a good thing for you because you get the best petroleum products in the world at the lowest prices. It's a good thing for the country because it stimulates the continuous development and conservation of a vital natural resource. And it's a good thing for the oil business: competition keeps the industry strong, vigorous, progressive.
